

THE FARMHOUSE

AUTHOR: STEVEN FERREIRO

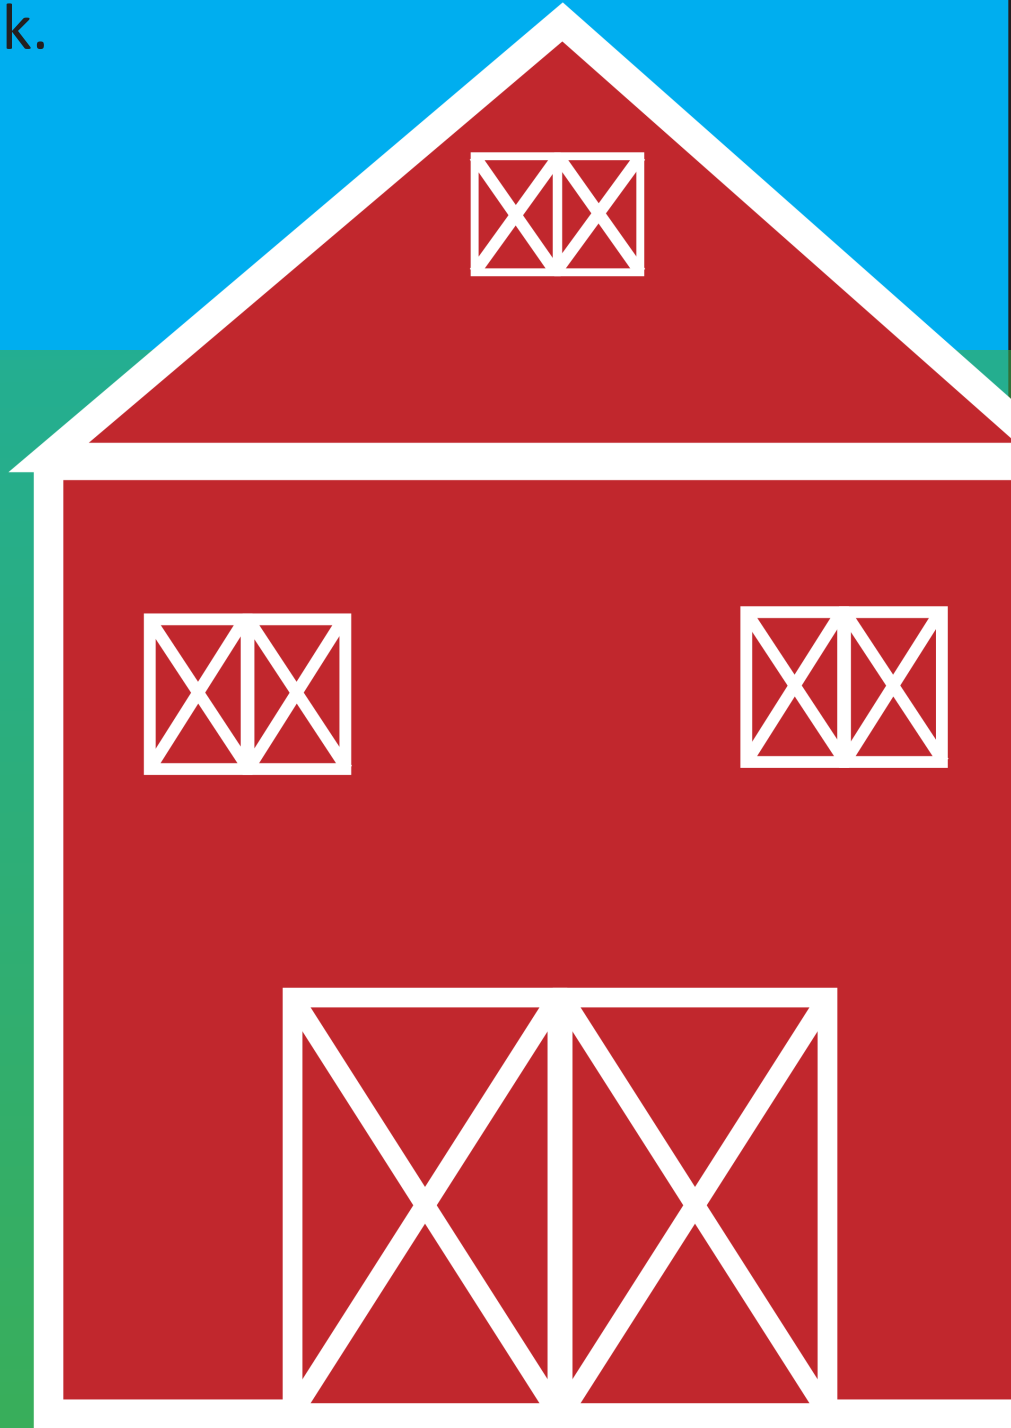

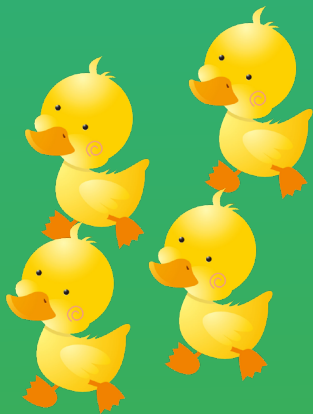

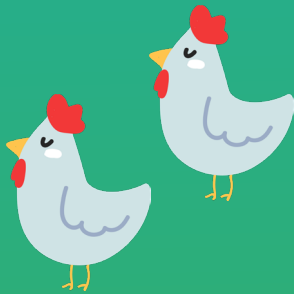

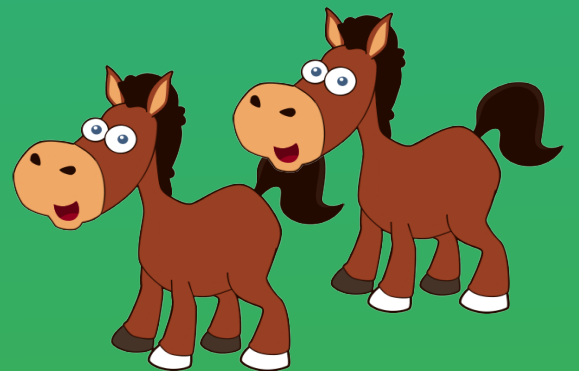

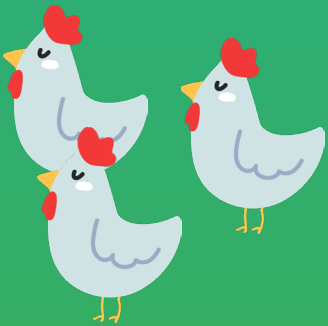

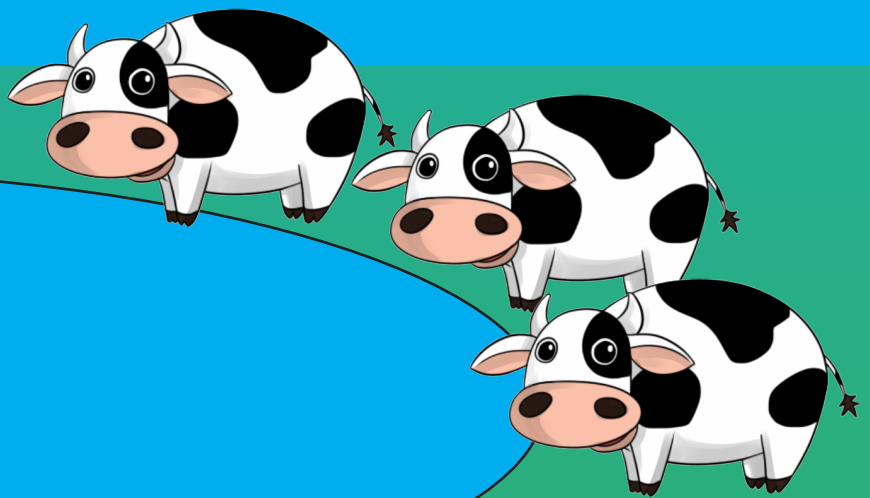

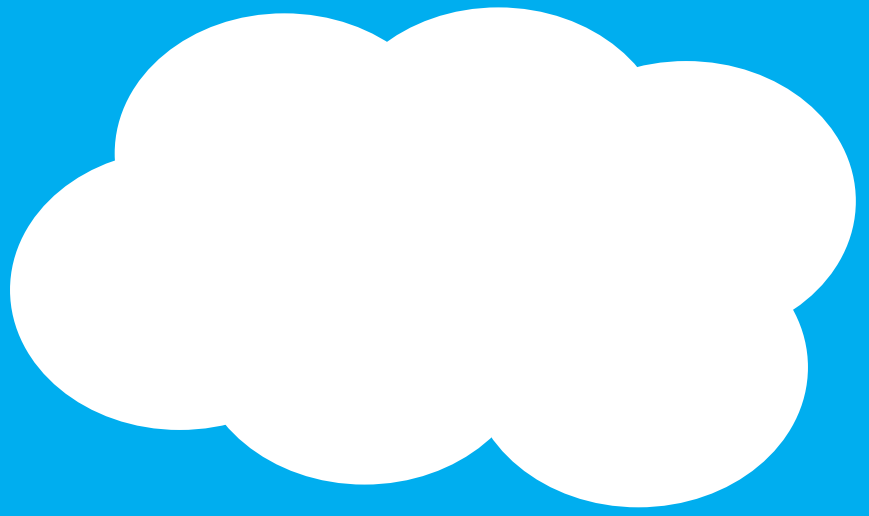

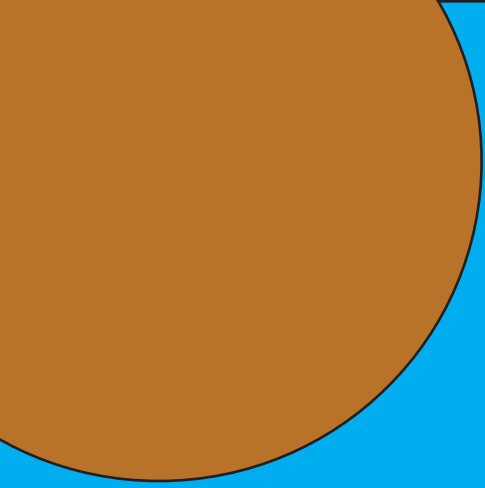

One day the animals woke up and went outside and found no one was there. There was no one to be found and nothing to eat. The animals wondered where everyone all went. They searched for hours till they saw a sign saying "For Sale".

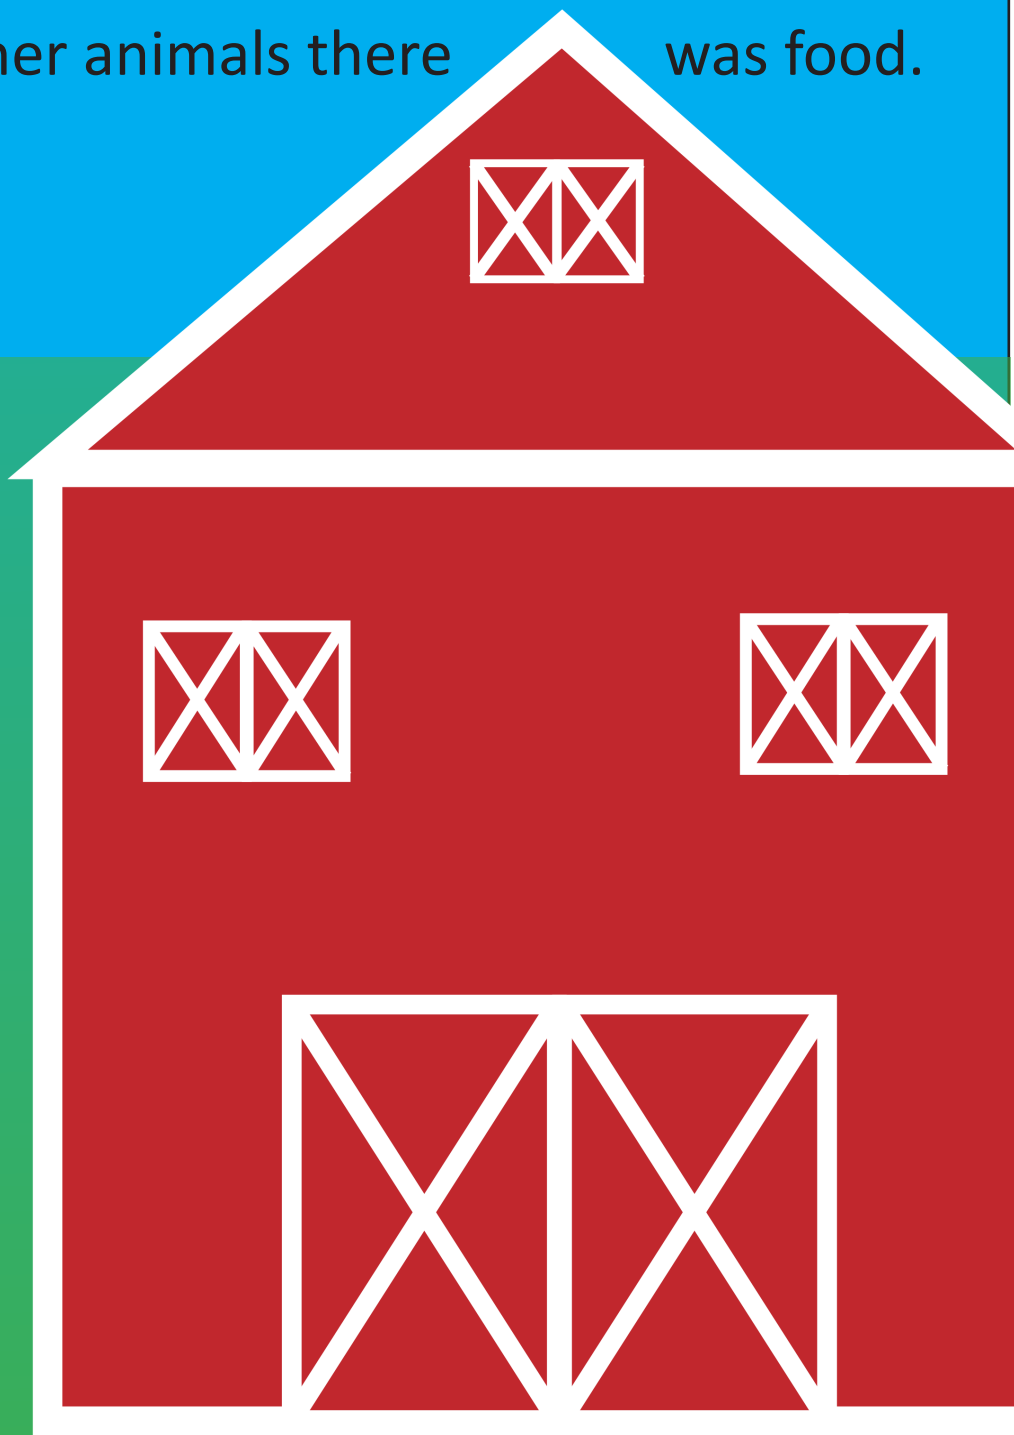

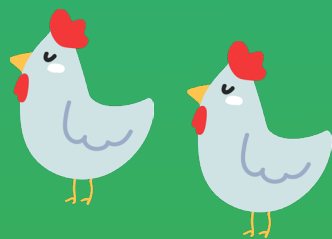

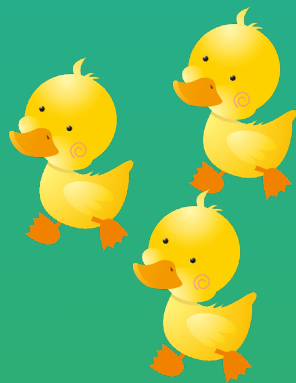

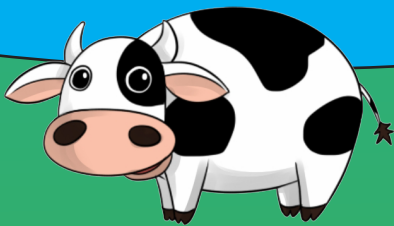

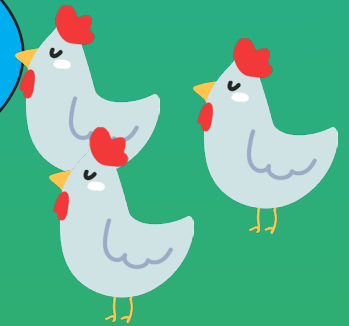

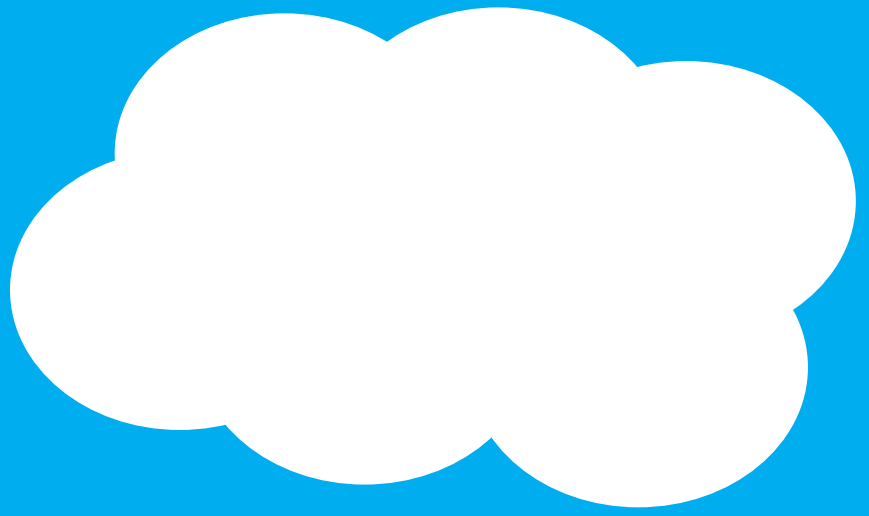

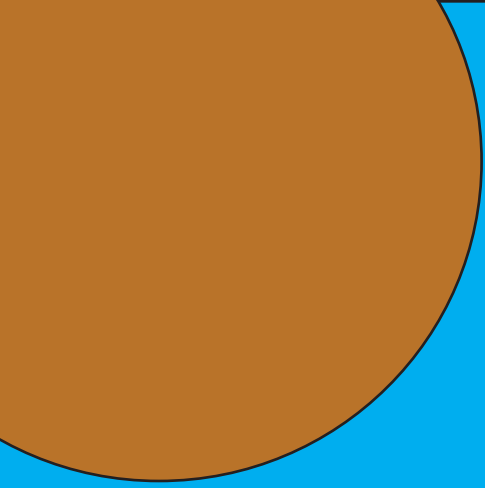

They all wondered what that sign was. The cows said moo-moo-moo which meant the farmer left. The chickens said click-click-click which means that he left on his daily routine. but then the ducks said quack-quack-quack saying that he is never coming back.

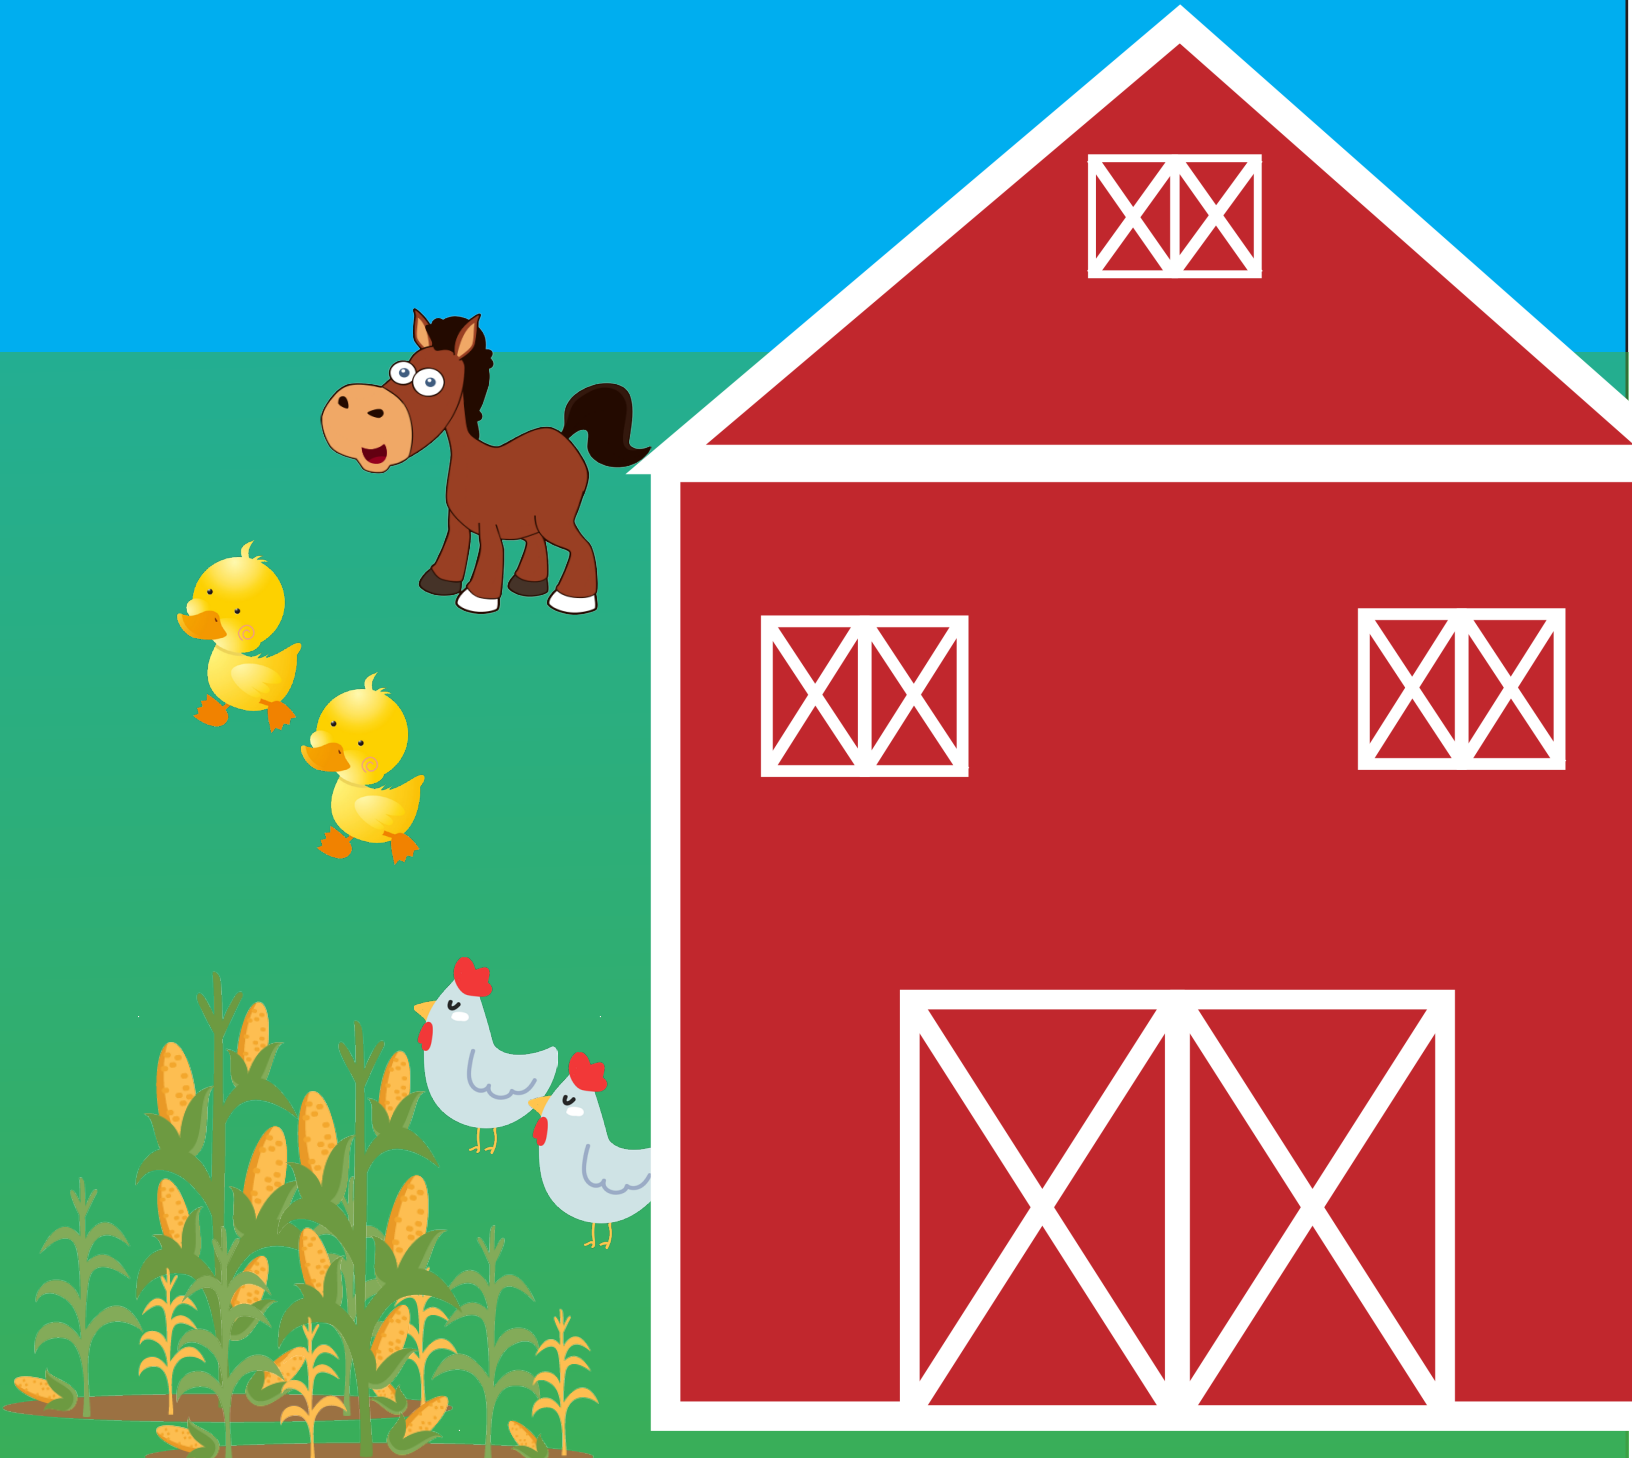

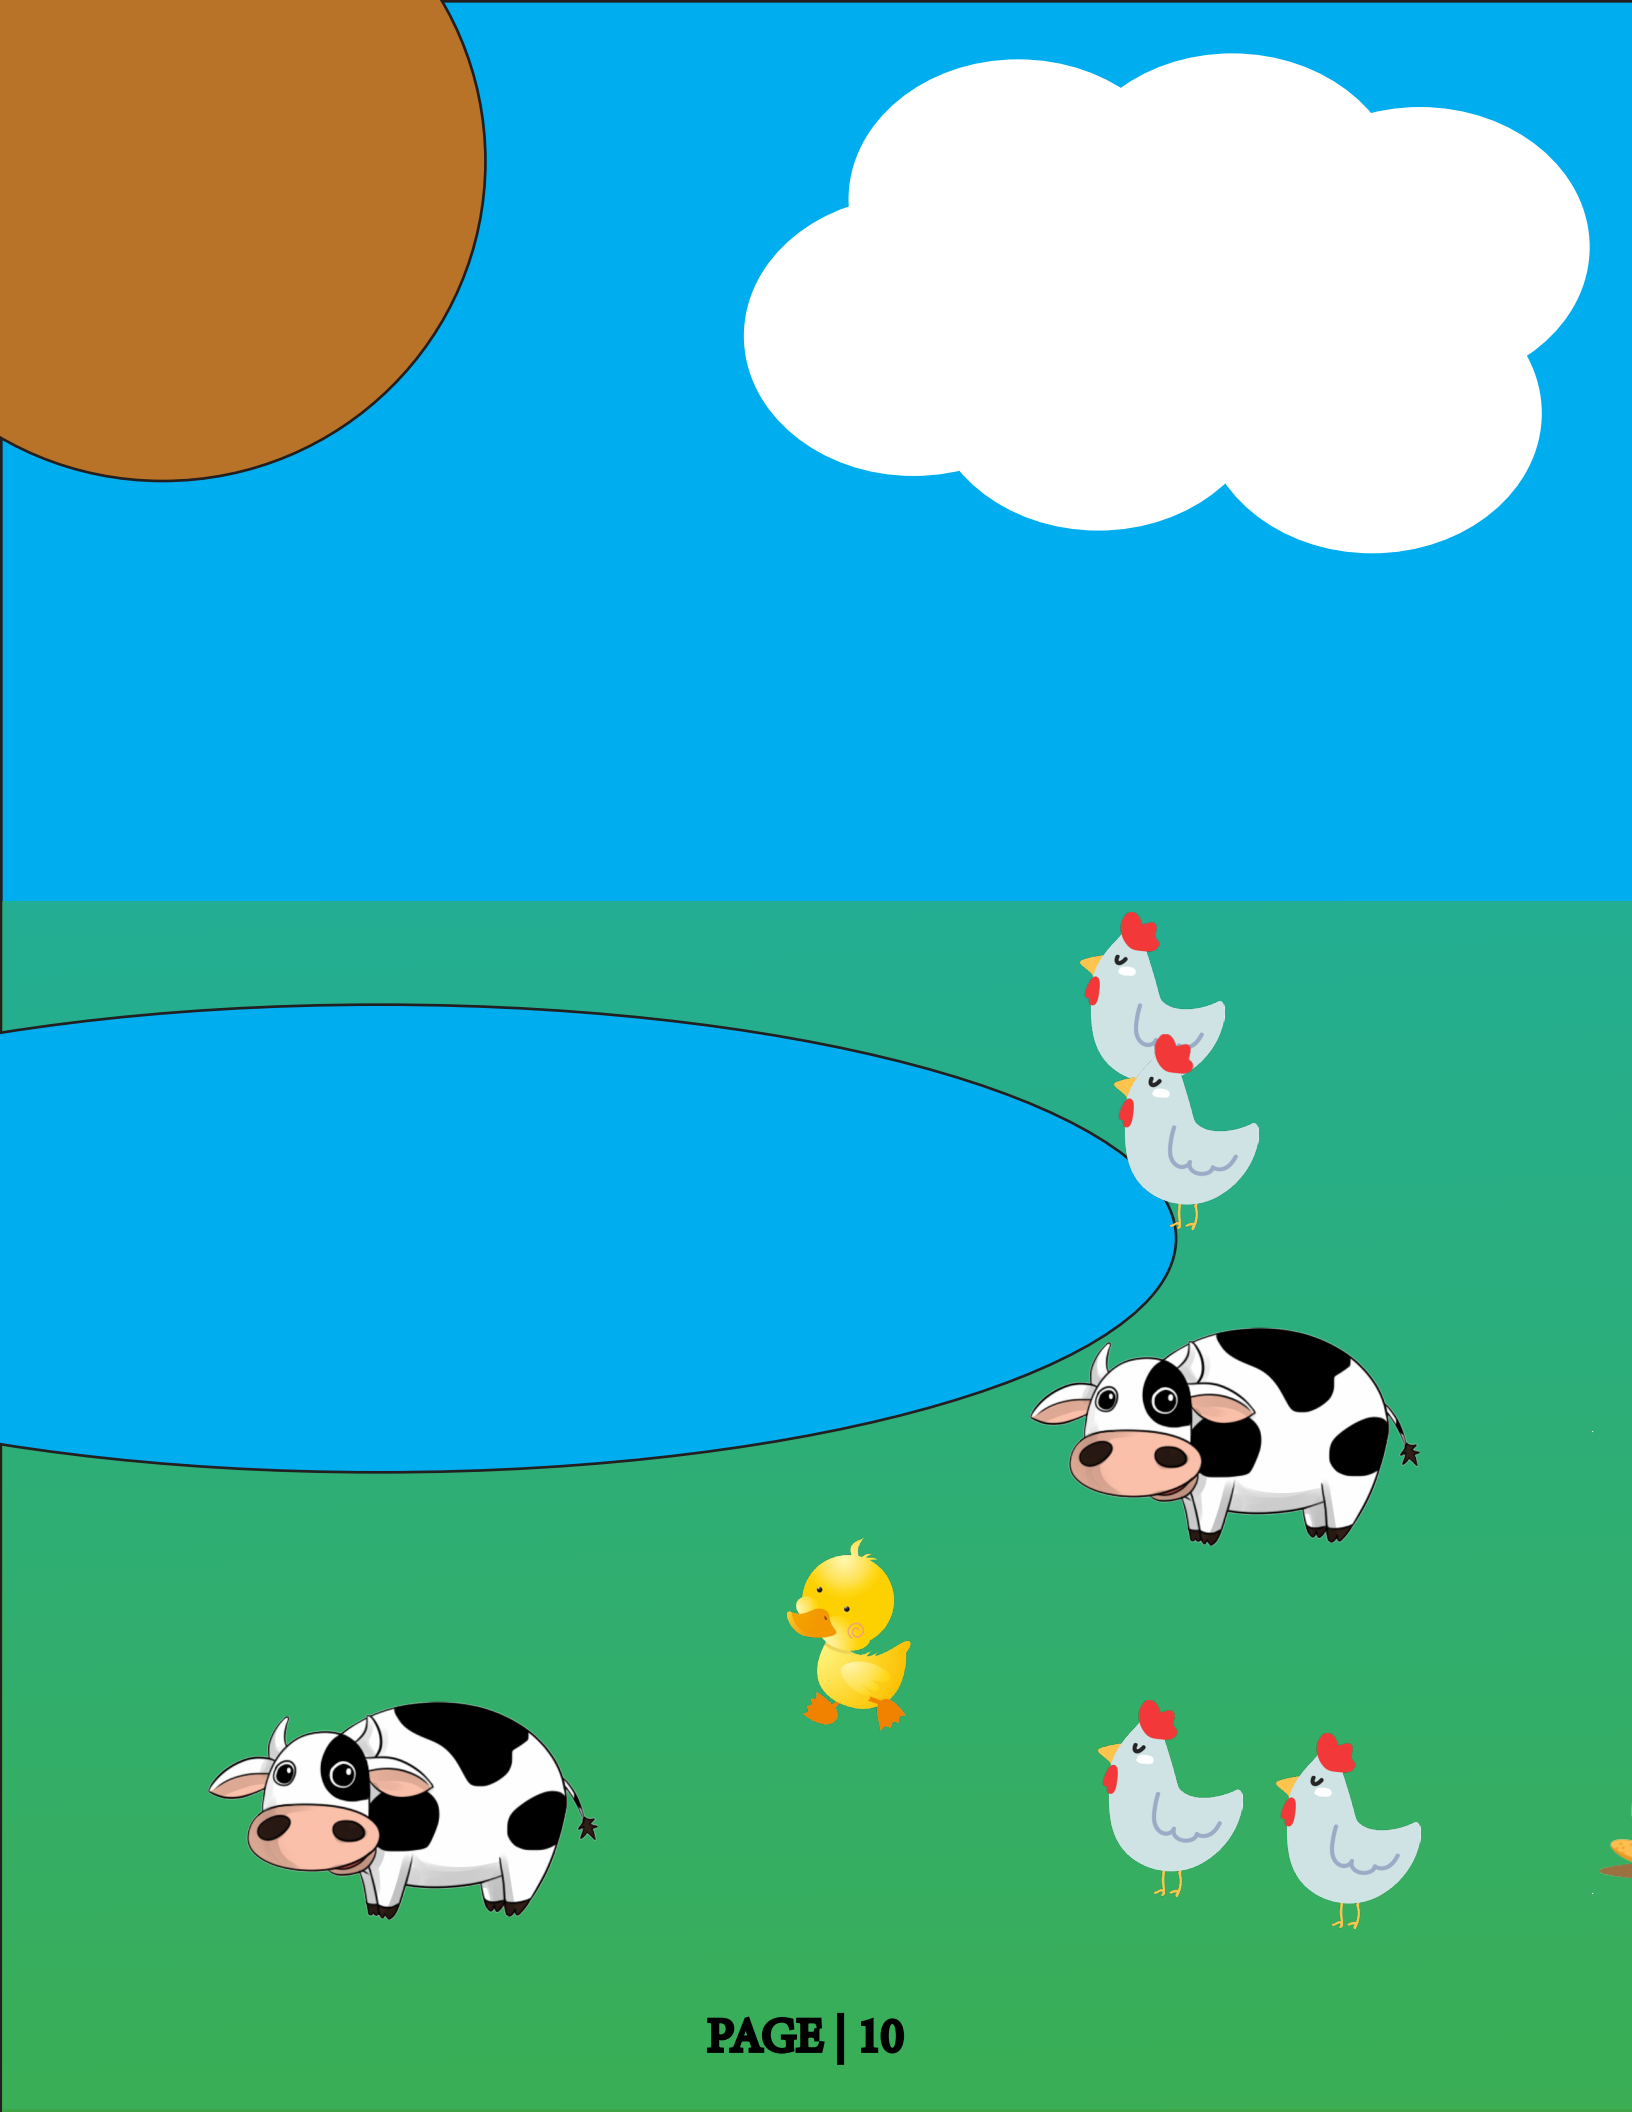

The next day came along and they were super hungry so they looked for people and still no one was there. So they looked for there are own food.As they searched the chickens found corn in a field that they can eat. So they screamed with there powerful voice “COCK-A-DOODLE-DOOO!” to alert the other animals there was food.

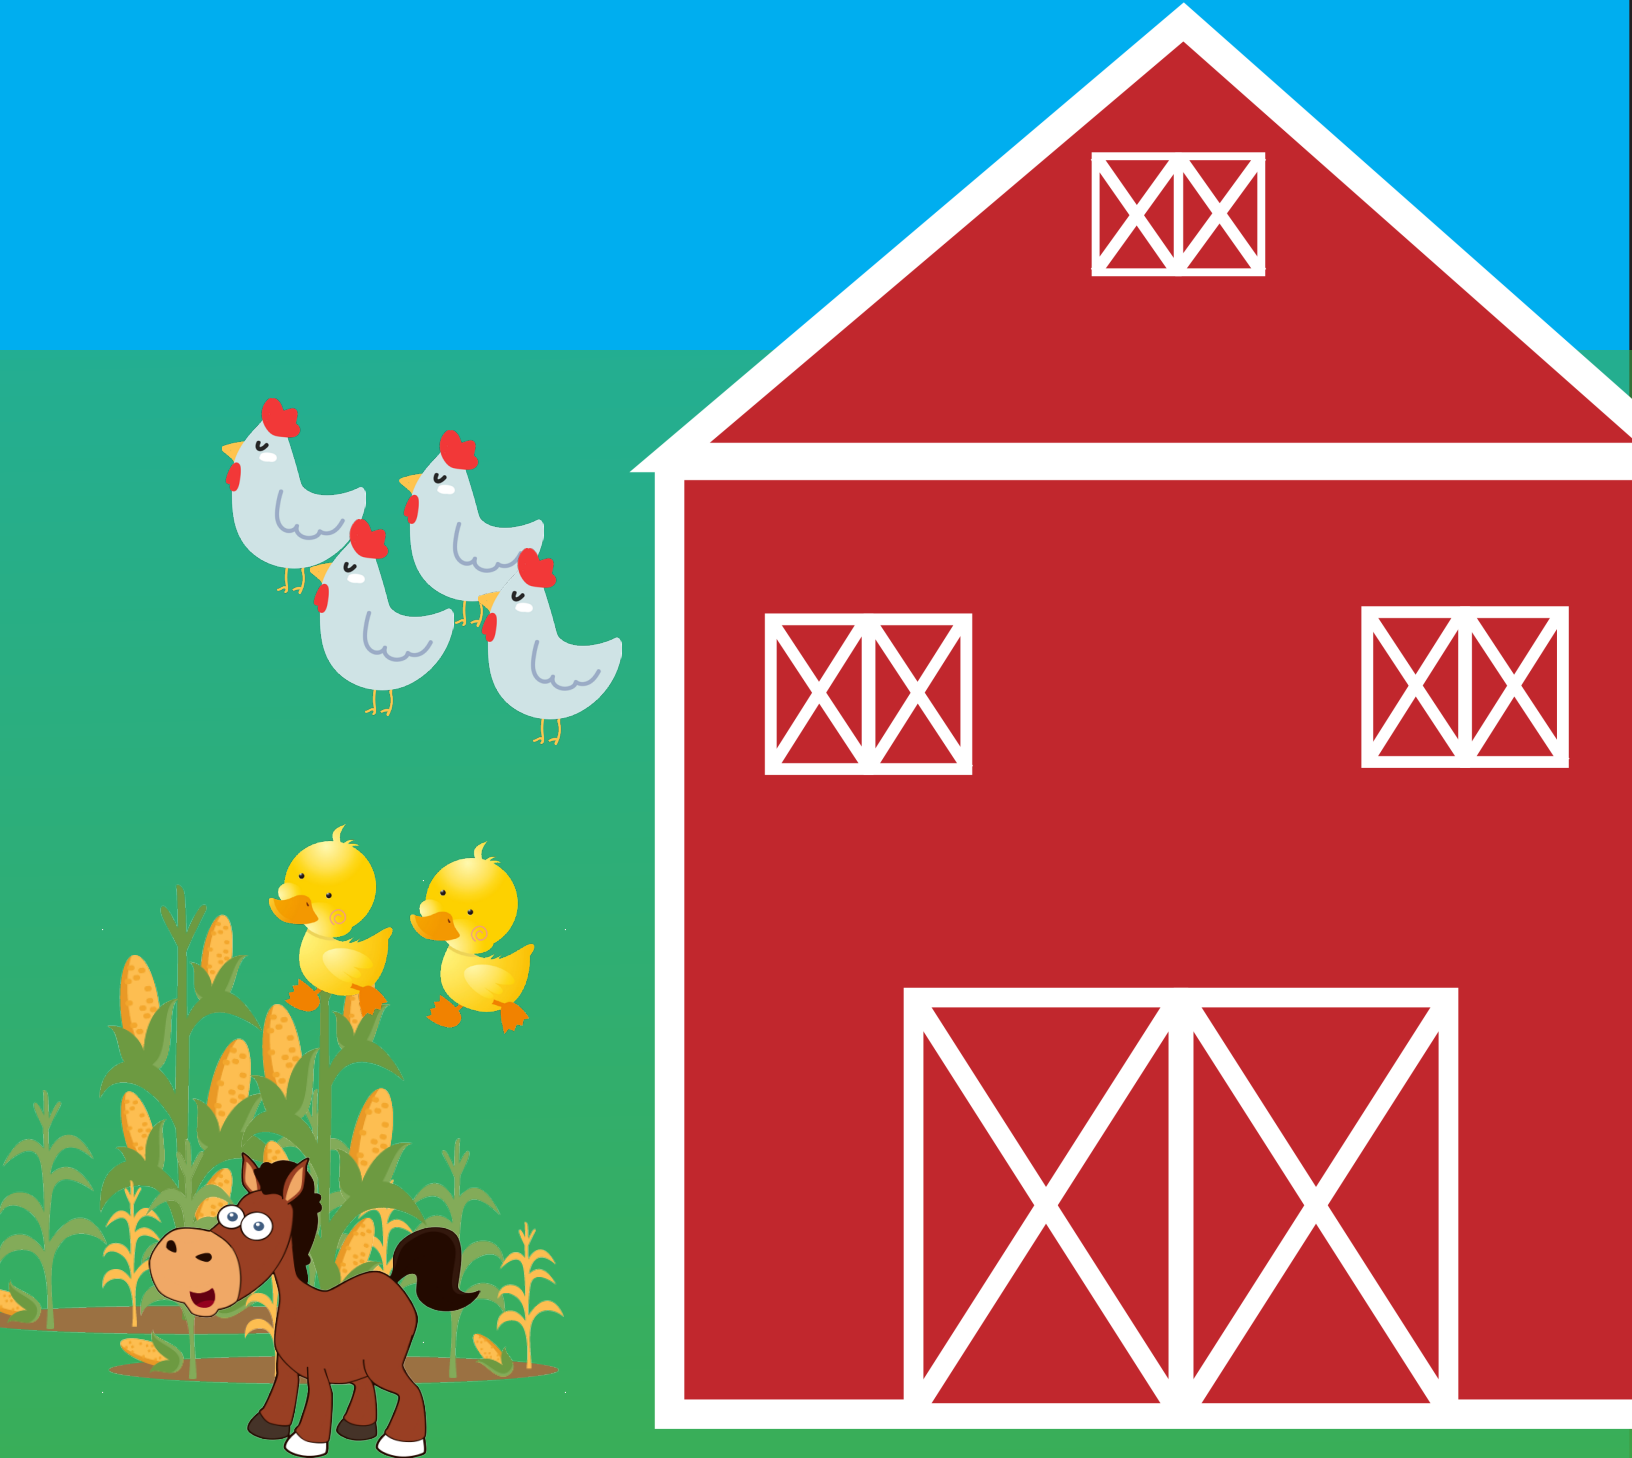

That afternoon someone stopped and called the sign. All the animals wondered what that meant. As they all said something they came to a decision that meant they would have a new owner soon!

The next day came and they were stuffed but still now how had food and a family because someone had bought the farm and cared for the animals!
